

RADIO SIGNAL RELAY

ABSTRACT

A radio signal relay for extending effective transmission distance of radio signals consists of a receiver and transmitter, a signal processing unit, an input output bus unit, a processing unit, a memory unit, a signal amplification unit and an antenna. The radio signal relay is adaptable for use in transmission modules of telephones, information peripherals, modem transmission and the like to extend the effective radio transmission distance.